Packing Tips - Materials You Will Need

Wrapping Paper: You are going to need plenty of wrapping paper. Many people save and use their old newspapers. Keep in mind, however, that the ink on newsprint never thoroughly dries. Consequently, the goods you wrap in newspapers are most likely going to be soiled and will require cleaning after unpacking, and before you put them away. For items you prefer to keep clean it would be best to purchase some packing paper from your mover.

Packing in the Kitchen

Packing is much more convenient, and less tiring when you have a good work area. It is suggested that you clear the kitchen table and do your packing on the table. Keep in mind that when you are packing fragile articles you Packing services and supplies should plan to pack the heaviest objects toward the bottom of the carton; more delicate articles should be packed closer to the top of the carton. The first thing to do is to lay out flat on the table a sizeable stack of packing paper. Select a sturdy, medium sized carton.

Moving Tips - Spreading the Word

- Notify both building managers of your move date. Moving boxes and supplies - Abracadabra Movers
- If possible, reserve the elevator at your new and old address.
- Reserve a parking space near the building for our truck.
- Have the utilities turned off at your old address one day after your move date.
- Have the utilities turned on at your new address one day prior to your move date.

Packing Your Belongings

- Use uniform sized boxes with tops and pack within reasonable weight.
- Do not use plastic bags to pack your goods.
- Use small boxes for books, boxes that are no larger than 12" x 12" x 18".
- Empty file cabinets and pack files into small boxes (12" x 12" x 18").
- Pack dishes on the edge instead of packing flat. This technique will lessen the likelihood of breakage.
- Do not wrap pictures or glass in newspaper, as the ink will rub off. Use packing paper or bubble wrap.
- Leave perishables in an operating refrigerator. Have an ice chest available to put perishables into just prior to moving the refrigerator. Make your movers aware of these items so that they know to load the refrigerator last and unload it first at your new address.

Organizing the Shipment

- Disassemble, as much as possible, stereos, TVs, VCRs, beds, mirrors from dressers, washers and dryers, etc. This will save time.
- Remove heavy or breakable items from drawers.

During the Move

- Move small items, breakable items, coins, jewelry, or valuables yourself.
- Upon our arrival, please inform us of any special requests you may have and review the driver's paperwork (Combined Agreement Moving Services and Freight Bill, Order for Service, Bill of Lading and Inventory) before the move begins.
